TRAINING FEEDBACK

Assalam o Alaikum! Today's workshop was truly beneficial for me. I learned that I must strive to know Allah better, keep my intentions pure, and act with sincerity (Ikhlaas) and excellence (Ehsaan). I also realized the importance of building a strong connection with Allah, continuously learning about Aqeedah, and spreading whatever good I learn to others. This creates a chain of reward (Sadaqah Jariyah) that continues to benefit us.

TRAINING FEEDBACK

Assalamu Alaikum Sir,

I hope you are doing well.

I wanted to sincerely thank you for such a powerful and insightful session on “How to Give Naseeha.” It was truly beneficial and thought-provoking. Your emphasis on niyyah (intention) really stood out to me – it reminded me that Dawah is not just about conveying a message, but first about reforming ourselves for the sake of Allah. The way you connected Dawah with our ultimate goal of the Akhirah made the session very impactful.

I also found the points on Ikhlâas, professionalism, and taking initiative extremely practical. The idea of adopting Ehsaan as a lifestyle and being punctual even before time is something I will try to implement in my daily routine, InshaAllah.

Your guidance on connecting every conversation back to Allah and adjusting Naseeha according to a person’s level was very valuable. It made Dawah feel more natural and achievable in everyday life, whether with family, friends, or even in casual settings.

The examples you shared, especially about the Sahaba like Hazrat Abu Bakr (RA), were very inspiring and gave a deeper sense of responsibility towards this work. Overall, the session not only increased my understanding but also motivated me to take Dawah as a lifelong mission, not just an occasional effort.

JazakAllah Khair for your time, effort, and sincerity. May Allah reward you abundantly and allow us all to practice and spread what we learned. Looking forward to more such sessions, InshaAllah.

TRAINING FEEDBACK

Sir, I have attended many sessions and workshops, but what made your training different was your energy, your clarity, and the way you connected experience with real life. It didn't feel like a lecture but it felt like guidance coming from years of learning and experience.

The thing I appreciated the most was that you didn't just teach us what to do, you taught us how to think and that is something we will carry with us beyond this workshop.

Thank you sir for this workshop, it was such a great experience inshallah will implement this in practical life

TRAINING FEEDBACK

Assalamualaikum wrwb!

Alhamdulillah, today's workshop was truly beautiful, heart-touching, and deeply Iman-boosting. It reminded me that before inviting others towards Allah, it is most important to first build our own strong connection with Him, to truly recognize Him, feel His presence, and reflect upon His greatness and power. When our own hearts are connected with Allah, our words naturally reach the hearts of others. Alhamdulillah, I also realized that dawah is not just an activity, but a blessed Prophetic Sunnah. The fact that Allah has chosen us for this noble work is itself an honor and a responsibility. Allah can turn such moments into life-changing journeys for anyone. Alhamdulillah, today's session became a life-changing moment for me. It transformed my perspective, changed my way of thinking, and helped me understand things with more clarity and purpose.

One of the most beautiful lessons was that dawah begins with listening. We should try to truly understand people, connect with their hearts, and speak with wisdom and kindness. Just like we gently teach children by telling them about the beautiful qualities and mercy of Allah (Azawajal), we should also approach others with softness, care, and sincerity. We should try to speak according to people's interests so they themselves feel the desire to listen and come closer to goodness. We must remain humble, kind, patient, and non-judgmental, because sometimes our character speaks louder than our words. A soft heart, a sincere intention, and beautiful manners can become the strongest means of guiding someone towards Allah.

Alhamdulillah, I feel truly grateful for this beneficial session that not only increased my knowledge but also touched my heart and renewed my intentions. May Allah allow us to practice what we learned and make us a means of guidance for others. Ameen.
